

M. Caldwell and M. Hubbard Write Senior Class Song To Win Over Competitors

Margaret Caldwell Composes Music and Marjorie Hubbard Writes Words

CHOSEN BY COMMITTEE
Song Gets Decision As Best Over Five Competing Entries

Margaret Caldwell and Marjorie Hubbard are the writers of the song which was chosen by a committee of judges as the class song of the seniors of 1933-A.

The committee, composed of S. B. Parker, chairman, Miss Mary Bates, Miss Mary Kate Tittsworth, Miss Edith Horton, and Edward H. Hamilton, selected the song from the five entries in the annual contest.

Margaret Caldwell composed the music, while Marjorie Hubbard wrote the words which follow:

Dear Knoxville High, the time draws nigh
When we must bid farewell
To many scenes we've learned to love,
That hold us in their spell.
And now with saddened hearts we come,
And at thy shrine we bow.
Our faithful, loving loyalty
To thee we vow.

So farewell, dear Knoxville High,
Our Alma Mater true,
We'll always revere thy name
And the good old Blue and White.

Dear teachers and classmates, too,
In the many years to be
We'll hallow the memories
Of the class of thirty-three.

The happy years that we have spent
Within thy friendly halls
Give memories that we'll cherish long
Of scenes beyond recall.

OPEN STUDENT COUNCIL MEETING IS POSTPONED

Due to the illness of Chairman Mark Scarbrough, the open meeting, in the library, of the Student Council has been postponed until Monday.

Reports from all committees will be heard and the new constitution will be discussed.

Chorus Presents Programs On Air

Knoxville High school's chorus of sixty voices, under the personal direction of Professor Edward H. Hamilton, director of music in K.H.S., will present a program of Christmas carols on the Knoxville High radio hour over Station WROL next Tuesday evening from 7:15 to 7:45.

Miss Guerrant Tatem, head of the department of home economics in K.H.S., explained the purpose of the home economics courses, now almost universally included in curricula of high schools of the country, on the program last Tuesday.

Knoxville High R. O. T. C. band, directed by Professor W. H. Crouch, furnished a group of band selections to complete the program.

Children To Have Christmas Party

B. & W. To Entertain First Graders At the Home of Ailene Brown

Whether the small pupils of Miss Mary Scales' first grade will be entertained by the Blue and White staff, or the staff entertained by the pupils on the afternoon of December 22, will probably be hard to determine.

The party has been planned to bring Christmas to a few kiddies who would otherwise have a very meager one.

The children will be taken in cars during the sixth period from Moses school to the home of Ailene Brown.

Candy and fruit will be given them with a doll for each little girl and a toy for every boy.

The newswriting class plans to furnish two pairs of stockings for each child.

Thrills will be furnished by an honest-to-goodness Santa Claus. Whether he will furnish these by actually coming down the traditional chimney, however, has not been decided. At any rate he will distribute presents to all the children and furnish a festal air to the party.

A Christmas tree will be decorated for them, to complete as perfect a Christmas as could be given to twenty-six first-graders by a staff with limited funds but willing hearts.

Art Display Shows Outstanding Work Of K.H.S. Students

All Types of Art Represented In Accomplishments of K.H.S. Classes

When interviewed about the art exhibition, Miss Mary E. Grainger gave the following information:

"The exhibition as a whole represents the work of first, second, third, and fourth-year art classes. The outstanding work of old graduates is also here.

"The posters made for plays and Joyland were made by Lars Bourne, Jewell Watson, Earl Rutherford, Louis Anderson, Ed Hurst, and Alice Kent.

"Designs for cretonnes, plaid materials and linoleum were made by first, second, and third-year classes.

"The newest color charts are pictures for children's color books, and were made by first-year classes.

"Christmas greetings were made from linoleum cuts.

"James Hammock, Walker Rutherford, Paul Sweet, and Ray Spaulding did outstanding work on the Christmas stars hanging in the halls.

"Drawings of public buildings in Knoxville, which are very interesting, were done by Earl and Walker Rutherford.

"Earl Rutherford has done very splendid work in lettering, being able to make letters in every shape and form. Lettering is done in all the art classes.

"Jack Sufferage is especially skillful in rug designing, and some of his work is in the hall now."

A. Converse, E. Randall, J. Rowntree, P. Horner Are Commencement Speakers

Mrs. Rice Receives Many Book Orders

Reviews Published In Several Newspapers Throughout United States

Recently the New York Times, leading conservative newspaper of the world, published a review of "A Handbook of Better Speech", written by Mrs. Emma Rice. Mrs. Rice is head of the mathematics department of K.H.S.

Following this review, papers in Los Angeles, Boston, Chicago, New Orleans, Buffalo, and Syracuse published articles on the same book. Orders increased from eight to ten copies a day. Large book stores such as Baker & Taylor, Lord & Taylor, Doubleday & Doran, and Scribner's ordered copies of the book for stock.

Requests for it have come from the Philippines, and Rome, Italy.

There are two sections in the book. One is a glossary containing 3,000 words and phrases with their correct usages given. The other section contains 1,000 commonly mispronounced words and their correct pronunciations.

Upper Class Council Confers On Thefts

Upper class representative council met to check on the problem of theft in high school Tuesday during chapel period. W. B. Bruce, faculty adviser, spoke for a few minutes on ways of preventing theft. He gave several suggestions to aid in detecting thieves.

Many pupils who have lost books have heard that they were sold to second-hand book stores. After closely checking with the stores, many books have really recently been sold by others than their owners.

All Members of Honor Society Figure In School Activities

SUBJECT UNSELECTED

To Be Selected Soon—Speakers Prepare Addresses During Holidays

Evelyn Randall and Almeda Converse have been selected to represent the girls, and John Rowntree and Paul Horner have been selected to represent the boys as commencement speakers for the class of '33-A.

Evelyn Randall had a leading part in the junior class play, "It Happened in June", last year, and she is a member of the Masquers Club and National Honor Society.

Almeda Converse is also a member of the National Honor Society. She was president of the Open Forum last year and has been on the debating team for two years.

John Rowntree is vice-president of the National Honor Society, a member of the Hi-Y and the Latin club; he is a letterman in track, and a second lieutenant of Company "D".

Paul Horner is a member of the National Honor Society, and a member of the Latin Club.

The subject for the commencement speeches has not as yet been selected. The subject will be decided upon before the Christmas holidays, so that the speakers may make preparations for their speeches during the vacation.

Last year the subject for the commencement speeches was "Two Hundred Years of Progress". The speeches reviewed America from the time of Washington up to the present.

ILLUSTRATED BOOKLETS REPLACE BOOK REPORTS

Students in the 9-A and 10-B English classes of Mr. Oscar Sams have made their parallel reports into interesting, illustrated booklets.

Some of these are on colored paper, some are typewritten, and one especially interesting one had a covering of wood around the written report.

These book reports are on display in the front hall.

Parco Soso In The Far Yeast, In The Land Of The Rising Bun

By Alford Orr

It seems, dear readers, that a descendant of our old pal, Sir Skunko the Valiant, got an itching toe one day and decided to leave his fireside and local saloon for to seek his fortune in this wide, wide world.

This enterprising youth was none other than Parco Soso, the founder of the modern Tall Story club. Although he had never fished in his life, he sure knew how to tell 'em. And so we find Parco gathering the choicest gang of slit-ton-sillers about him as had been seen since Robin Hood and his mob convened in Sherwood Forest. Blithely, and without a care in his heart or a brain in his head, the adventurous youth set out for the Far East, land of the fabled Egg-Eaters.

Sailing around the Cape (same one Raleigh used) in a record-breaking time of twenty years, ten minutes, having been detained at various points along the Dark Continent by gusty squalls and dusky squaws, our hero and company reached the island of Solong off the coast of India. They settled there and lived peacefully for ten years or so in a wee hamlet of eighty thousand inhabitants which they named Columbo, after the famous navigator to be born some two hundred years later.

But the peace and quiet of that wanton dot in the sea soon palled on a man of action like Parco.

Getting an invitation from Old Tomato Khan, great grand-daddy of the famous world-conqueror, Continental Khan, to visit his court, our intrepid home lover decided to give the old boy a break and accept. So we find the merry mob of adventurers, which had now dwindled to some seventy of the hardiest, the rest having died of old age or the colic, passing along the precipitous trails of the mountains called Hottamles. Now there was a peculiar fact about these mountains; the sun shone down on one side at a temperature of three hundred degrees, while in the shadow on the other side it was below zero; in this way the horses that the boys were riding cooked to a turn on one side and froze hard as a rock on the other. There being nothing else to do about it, Parco and company feasted on the roasted horse and saved the cold storage side for a rainy day.

It was one day about noon when the band saw its first hallucination of the trip. Soaring majestically over the next rise of the range, a covey of pink elephants hove into view. Now the lads knew that the milk hadn't soured on them, as it was kept on the cold side of the trail, so they laid it to their sins of earlier days at the bar catching up with them and thought no more about it. They'd almost forgotten the incident when they espied a drove of spangdoodles swimming lazily up an arid gulch. But this didn't phase them, they merely said "Hello, boys", and received just as polite an answer from the spangdoodles in fluent Hindustan.

Finally, after an uneventful journey of seven years, the griz-

CHRISTMAS

We are entering the Christmas season, and soon we shall be celebrating the birth of our Savior, which took place so many years ago in far-off Bethlehem.

Probably many of us do not know that Christmas was not celebrated as a separate holiday until more than three hundred years after the crucifixion of Christ. The principal reason for this delay was the fact that early Christians observed the date of a great man's death instead of the date of his birth. Another cause is that the exact date of Christ's birth is not known; the day which we celebrate, December 25, is merely a guess, for the change from the ancient calendar to the one which we use made the already indefinite date more inaccurate than ever.

But it is not the exact date which is important, but the fact that we do celebrate the birth of Christ. Christmas should be an occasion when the hearts of the world occupy themselves with attempts to make all others happy, as He used to do constantly; then we should remember the great sacrifice which He made for us on that distant hill in Palestine.

Possibly the custom of bell-ringing on Christmas day brings the many carols, reminding us of the First Christmas, to us in a more pleasing manner than any other medium. Longfellow, in his poem entitled "Christmas Bells", has given us an eternal reminder of that glorious moment when the angelic choir proclaimed the birth of The Christ, Savior of Mankind:

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old, familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat,
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

And thought how, as the day had come,
The belfries of all Christendom
Had rolled along
The unbroken song
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

Till, ringing, singing on its way,
The world revolved from night to day,
A voice, a chime,
A chant sublime,
Of peace on earth, good will to men!

When pealed the bells more loud and deep:
"God is not dead, nor doth He sleep,
The wrong shall fail,
The right prevail,
With peace on earth, good will to men!"

FASTING

The idea of fasting for one day out of next week for the benefit of the starving people of this city has had much consideration from the city newspapers.

Relief for those unfortunates cannot receive too much consideration from any source. A body of two thousand people, as Knoxville High school is, can do an untold amount of good in promoting a project of this kind.

The idea is to go one day without food and contribute the cost of that day's food to the people who probably have no more to eat for a week than you have for a day. Of course, if it is your pleasure to have your regular meals on that day, it is still your obligation to contribute the amount of money you spent for your food to the cause. But one cannot realize the effect that the present conditions inflict upon hungry people until he has gone for twenty-four or thirty-six hours without food as do the people themselves in lots of cases.

This drive is one of the most complete ways of relief that has ever been planned, for it reaches more people in a better way than any other method. Every one of the more fortunate people eat, therefore it gets to everyone. The cost of a day's food is not a great amount, therefore it causes no one a great loss. But by reaching a great number of people the capital will be greater than if a larger amount was solicited.

Campaigns in the school have proved that K. H. S. has the spirit of giving when it is needed, and now is a chance or rather an obligation that can be cheerfully met.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

With another year we all have another chance, every-one at his own particular line of endeavor. This chance, as well as all others, should be taken as the opportunity that knocks but once.

Resolutions that we hear so much about are in line at this time of the year. What will each do with his resolutions? Drop them as soon as they are made, wait until New Year's day, or keep them like all good, honest resolutions should be kept? You decide for yourself.

Thirty-three is going to be equal to everyone, so get your part of it by putting in it everything you have. If one makes his mistakes fewer and the high lights of the year higher and better, he can get more out of the year in every respect.

The writer and this publication wishes the student body, the homes they represent, the faculty, and everybody the happiest, most prosperous and successful year of their lives. Here's to you for more and better resolutions.

Comes '33, and it seems like we can't help it—thank goodness.

Juanita Sharp wants everyone to know that all her love for Frank Jenkins is dead.

A terrible mistake was made in this column last week. Ed Allen wishes to correct it. He says that he and Doris are more in love than ever.

Dan Cupid is busy constantly. He has woven his spell around Guy Jett and Susie Bell, Martha Newman and Claude Riley, Carolyn Anderson and Bill Chamberlain, and Anna Grace Needham and Bill Adcock.

This week's nomination for Prince Charming is Pete Guthrie.

Maybe Chappy would rather have had his name in the paper last week with Mary Katherine instead of Jackie.

How did F. B. Kuhlman rate the officers' banquet when he's not an officer?

We thought that Tot Handley had a date with Jane Wilkins on Saturday night. Well, anyway, he showed up at the dance with cute little Jane Roark.

Georgiamae Ellison is going to have a real Christmas. Morgan is coming up during the holidays.

Our Panther Woman is in love with Jimmie Dempster, we hear.

What does Johnnie Byerly mean when he says he'll never be the same?

Artis Pease, who is the "Lib" you had with you the other night?

May we suggest that in view of the most excellent piece of acting that Mary Currier and Earl Bradley favored us with in Joyland last week that we dub them K. H. S.'s own Greta Garbo and John Barrymore? Congrats, Student Council, that play was really good!

We heard this many years ago and have seldom missed an opportunity to repeat it to anyone who would listen, and we think it's worth repeating again as Christmas approaches:

'Twas the night before Christmas,
And all through the house
Not a creature was stirring,
Not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the window with care—
They'd been worn six weeks and they needed the air!!

Your columnist is an ardent Cantor fan and never misses one of his programs. Below are two excerpts from last Sunday evening's program.

A lady came into a store and while paying her bill remarked that this was her last instalment on the baby carriage.

"Oh, fine, thanks; he's getting married tomorrow!"

Eddie and the announcer were up in an airplane and Cantor was half scared to death. The announcer was joshing Eddie about his fright.

"It is," chattered Eddie. "One drop will kill you!"

Judge Berry's Christmas

By Martha Brown

It was Christmas morning. The city was covered with snow as the people went about celebrating that Day of Days. All households were awakened by the patter of little feet running expectantly to the friendly bosom of a towering evergreen to open eagerly the offerings left by Kris Kringle. Everyone's room was warm, all hearts were glad, and every table was groaning under the weight of a thousand delicacies accumulated for the biggest feast of the year—Christmas dinner!

But that Christmas morning Judge Berry, just a poor, almost friendless negro, was happier than you or I, my friend. Judge was sitting that day at the feet of the only real Santa Claus, looking over a multitude of friends clad in white. Each shouted Merry Christmas to Judge and to Santa. For Judge had come home, and Santa smiled as he looked back through the dim curtain of the distant past, recalling fondly the shining faces. He saw when He waved a chubby hand from the manger at Jerusalem so many, many years ago.

Judge, until that Christmas morning, was an eighty year old negro tenant on the plantation of Wiley C. Hill, 1104 S. Perry St., Atlanta, Georgia. He had been ill for several months. Judge went to the home of "Marse Hill", as he knew his employer, on the way to the doctor.

Someone had given Judge a dollar as a Christmas gift, and the aged darky got out of the car at "Marse Hill's" home with the dollar clutched tightly in his hand. He smiled as he walked toward the door behind which sat his employer for twenty years. Judge, you see, was going to wish "Marse Hill" a Merry Christmas.

But the weight of eighty years had bent him, and Judge faced the real Santa as he walked into his employer's home on Christmas Day. Judge thought of the won-

Girls To Model In Style Show

Senior girls will model dresses that will be suitable for class night and the banquet at a style show to be given during chapel period Tuesday in the assembly hall.

The style show is made possible through the courtesy of Miller's, George's, Lerner's, and the Peggie Hall Shop. Frances Benton, Nona Lee Brown, Martha Smith, Louise Cate, and Margaret DePue formed a committee that investigated the cost of dresses and the materials and colors most popular now. The committee recommends that both evening and afternoon dresses be considered appropriate for the senior activities and that the girls select the dress they need most and wear the same dress to both banquet and class night.

Posters with pictures of dresses and samples of materials, with the total cost of making the dress, will be shown for the benefit of those girls who wish to make their dresses. The home economics department will be glad to assist any of these girls.

The most outstanding materials this season are rough and sheer crepes. The most popular colors are white and bright reds and pastel shades. Many dresses have detachable capes. If the dress is an afternoon frock it must have puffed sleeves or a variation of puffed sleeves. The new evening dresses will have some form of a short sleeve.

drous things he could enjoy if he went home for Christmas, so he left suddenly. He died a moment or two after the members of the Hill family reached him.

What, you think you're happy on Christmas? So do I until I think of Judge. But Judge is the happy one. He's gone home, you see.

Listen! Can't you hear the angels shouting?

Listen! "Merry Christmas, Judge! Happy Birthday, Santa!"

Judge is spending all his days at home now.

Holiday Trips Are Planned

Faculty and Students Give Various Answers To Interview Questions

As the Christmastide draws near, the students' and teachers' thoughts turn toward the holidays. Several interviews with teachers revealed that their plans vary considerably.

"I intend to stay home and sleep," said Mr. Longmire. "You can't go anywhere on warrants, you know."

When Mr. Browning was asked his plans for spending his vacation, he replied that he was going to take his family to be with his sister in Lexington, Kentucky.

Mrs. Emma Rice has been asked to review the book, "Pekin Picnic", for Ossoli Circle during the Christmas holidays.

"It is predicated on the supposition that if I can get some warrants changed for enough money to buy gasoline, I will spend the vacation in Fayetteville, Tennessee," stated Mr. George Poindexter Turley. "There I can eat plenty and not worry about the grocery bill."

Mr. Lowery plans to eat heavily also.

Frances Benton, sponsor of "B" company, intends to go to Kentucky. That is, if she gets a kiddy car for Christmas.

"I am going to spend my vacation learning how to turn hand-springs," said Martha Brown, news editor of the Blue and White.

Last but not least, Sidney Licht, the undernourished ad hound, is going to try to collect money for ads because he figures that people will receive money as presents for Christmas.

K.H.S. Graduates Prominent In U.T.

Many graduates of Knoxville High school are prominent in the various activities at the University of Tennessee.

Bob Rule, who was elected "Mr. K.H.S." last year, was chosen to lead the freshman class of U.T. a short time ago, while Julian Harris, business manager of the Blue and White in 1931-32, was elected treasurer of the first-year students.

Talmage (Sheriff) Maples, who was captain of the K.H.S. football team in 1929, has attained a similar honor by receiving the captaincy of the U.T. team for 1933. Howard Bailey, who is a sophomore at U.T., is tackle on the varsity squad. Many sports writers have predicted that he is a future All-American. Charlie Vaughn, another sophomore, is a halfback on the football team. Fred Moses, an alumnus of K.H.S., received his numeral for freshman football at U.T. this year.

Betty Clemens, a graduate of last June and former student council member, has been selected as one of the 29 beauties on the Hill.

PTA In Special Meeting Tues.

Parents Visit At Night and See the Current Art Exhibit

Initially opening the night meetings of P. T. A., a parents' night was observed on Tuesday with the central meeting held in the assembly hall.

The halls were decorated with the works of art furnished by Miss Mary Grainger's classes. The parents were allowed to tour the building after they had heard the speech made by Principal W. E. Evans.

The rooms were lighted and some of them had night school classes in session.

The purpose of having a night meeting was to make it possible for all parents to come, and the arrangement is especially convenient for the fathers who must work during the day.

The Christmas Tree

By Ailene Brown

To most of us Christmas is not Christmas without a tree. If there cannot be a large one, a small one will have to do, but there must be some sort of tree. It should be hung with strings of popcorn and large bubbles of colored glass and little shiny horns and jacks-in-the-box and striped candy. It should be powdered with sparkling snow and twinkling with starry lights hidden deep among its green branches, dripping silvery icicles of tinsel. It should be crowned with a silver star or an angel. It should have tiny red and green candles on the tips of its wings, and should stand in all its glory in a place of prominence among the other festal decorations.

How did that custom originate? Why do we symbolize an evergreen instead of the wooden shoe that each Belgian child places on the door stoop each Christmas, ever in joyful anticipation of a visit of the good Saint Nicholas?

The story goes that in England long ago the oak was worshipped with human sacrifice. Many lives were taken to appease the mighty spirit in the sacred tree. One Christmas eve the chief of a certain village and all the people were gathered together beneath a huge gnarled oak for the annual rituals. The weird priest of the dreaded spirit led them in solemn chanting as they sought the divine will of their wooden god. The wind whistled through the bare branches of the tree and the limbs rattled. The priest silenced the people. It was the angry voice of the god demanding sacrifice. Only the life of the chief's small son would satisfy him. The people wailed. The lad was dear to all of them and the only heir to his father's position. The little boy was led forward and after being blindfolded, laid his head on the rest, waiting the blow of the axe. Suddenly the child was lifted to his feet and the axe taken from the raised hands of the executioner. Who was the strong man who had dared oppose the priest of the oak? He was beginning with deft strokes to hew down the sacred tree. A murmur ran through the crowd. The god would be avenged on this man. But the axe sang out with steady strokes until the tree fell and the one who had cut it stood before them and told them the story of Christmas, and of a God of Love who did not want bloodshed and sacrifice.

As he spoke, his face shone like the sun and because of this the people called him Bonnyface. They begged him to stay with them and teach them more, but he could not. With a wave of his hand he left them, then, on the hill, and in the snow where he had stood was a tiny evergreen tree. The people brought the best they had and laid it under the little tree. Their children were told the story of Saint Bonnyface, and their children's children and each generation in turn had its evergreen trees on Christmas day in commemoration of their turning from the awful worship of the oak to the religion of love, peace, and goodwill.

Teachers Of Electives Explain Advantages Of Their Subjects

These Classes Chiefly Stress Practicalities—Few Offer College Credit

Aside from the regular studies, a number of elective subjects are offered to Knoxville High school students. Among these are psychology, civics, and economics, taught by C. L. Northcutt.

"Psychology gives no credit for college entrance. It is the study of the mind and how it operates," said Mr. Northcutt. "Civics, however, is the study of government, and gives credit for college entrance. Economics is the study of the bread and butter side of life," continued Mr. Northcutt, "but in more specific terms, the study of money, banking, business of all kinds, and prosperity, around what corner. It gives college credit."

"All those intending to go to a university and take mathematics should take advanced algebra," stated Mrs. Emma Rice, teacher of that subject. "What is studied in the first two years of algebra is reviewed and new subjects are taken up."

George P. Turley, pedagogue of mathematics, said: "Primarily, the people who plan to go into engineering or technical courses should take solid geometry. One who does not like plane geometry or do well in it should not take solid, especially a person who passed plane geometry on a 'D'. If a person in these conditions takes it, he will get into deep water."

"We may enter the world of imagination created by the great writers, musicians, and artists of the world through our imagination and appreciation if we have been educated in the proper use of our leisure time," said Miss Mary Grainger, when speaking of the educational advantages of the art courses.

Dramatic reading and public speaking are electives taught by Miss Elsie Waddle.

"Anyone can take these subjects. By them one learns to in-Miss Waddle. "I don't expect to make any Sarah Bernhardts, but wish to help the students think on their feet," she said.

All home economics subjects are elective.

Costume designing, taught by Miss Clara Jean Beaman, is a course which attempts to set up standards of better dress among high school girls by teaching them colors and lines suitable to their personality, coloring, and figures. No laboratory work is done, but the girls are taught how to select clothes. This course may be elected during any year and no requirements are necessary.

"To develop 'a nose for news', one should take newswriting. This course teaches one to read and to appreciate the newspaper, to select the good news from the bad, to recognize a well-written story, and to write stories, editorials, and features. It develops responsibility, fair play, and tact. Only good English students are advised to take this course," said Miss Emma Becton, teacher of newswriting.

Music history and appreciation, taught by Edward Hamilton, is of primary value to anyone who is interested in music, either in playing or in the appreciation of what others play. The second term's work in this class includes compositions ranging from Schubert to modern composers. The chorus is advantageous to those who love music and have a fair singing voice. The orchestra is only for experienced players, who should be able to read and play at least the fundamentals of their instruments. Commercial law is taught by Wayne Longmire. This elective is the study of every-day law terms and their uses in every-day life.

Red Cross Is 'Santa Claus' To Children

Woodworkers, Art Dept. and Others Make Toys For Pickle School

Dolls that have been made and dressed by K.H.S. students will be delivered to Pickle school on December 22 by the welfare committee of the Red Cross council and two pupils each from A. W. Torresani's, Miss Rebecca Cole's, Miss Mary Grainger's, and Miss Harriet Fowlkes' classes. Ed Stokeley will play the part of Santa Claus to the children.

Miss Harriet Fowlkes' clothing class has agreed to help make the needed number of dolls. All dolls must be in before the fifth period Monday, and the judges will select the best dressed dolls during the sixth period. First prize will be $1.00, second prize 75 cents, and third prize 50 cents. These prizes are given by the K.H.S. Red Cross council.

This week a milk fund of $15.00 was sent to both Pickle and Perkins schools. Each year K.H.S. supplies money for the milk fund.

The Senior Red Cross chapter gave ten ready-made dresses to the Junior Red Cross to be given to pupils in Knoxville High school that need clothing. These were turned over to Miss Nelle Henry.

Toys that are on display in the case in the front hall were made by Mr. Torresani's woodwork classes and were painted by the students in the art department, under the supervision of Miss Mary Grainger. These toys will be taken to Pickle school Thursday, December 22.

Christmas Holidays Will Extend Until January 2

Pupils of Knoxville city schools will be given a holiday from Friday, December 23, 1932, until January 2, 1933. This gives them a week's vacation from school work.

Everyone is expected to have a nice Christmas vacation and come back to school prepared to work hard for the next term. After this vacation there are only a few more holidays until the end of school.

Trojans Tilt Karns Quint Here Tonite

Farragut Falls To K.H.S.
45-26 In Easy Game Here
Tuesday

With the strong Powells High quintet furnishing the opposition, the K.H.S. Trojan basketballers meet their first tough assignment in the task of winning the Knox County League basketball title to-night, 8 o'clock, in the K.H.S. gym.

A preliminary game between the K.H.S. "B" team and a team representing the Knoxville News-Sentinel will start at 7 p. m. The regular game will immediately follow the preliminary game.

"Ranking with Central, Youngs, and Carter, Powells is classed as one of the best teams in the league," said Coach Wilson Collins. "The winner will probably come from that group."

In a somewhat uninteresting game, the Trojans defeated Farragut High Tuesday night at the K.H.S. gym, 45-26. Red Sharpe flashed outstanding form as he scored 10 points. Fred Smith was outstanding for Farragut. Although substitutes played much of the game, the Trojans had an easy time defeating their opponents, as the score indicates.

Coach Collins expressed the fact that he was pleased with the team's showing in the Farragut game.

"The team has shown great improvement since the opening game," the coach said.

Tuesday's lineup:
K.H.S. Pos. Farragut
G. Johnson (5) F. Raby (2)
L. Foster (2) F. G. Mills (6)
C. Johnson (7) C. Woods (7)
Wrifford (6) G. Boring (2)
Sharpe (10) G. F. Mills (1)
Referee: Wilder.
Scorekeeper: Bill McDonald.

Independent League Rounds Into Shape; 16 Candidates Turn Out For Wrestling Team

More Expected, Says Wayland, Student Coach

Herman Is S. Light-Heavy Champion—Plans Inter-scholastic Meets

A wrestling team for K.H.S. seems to be a sure thing now. At the first meeting, held last Monday, eight boys came out. Tuesday eight more signed, making the roster total sixteen candidates.

"More are expected," said Herman Wayland, student organizer of the team.

Among the sixteen, who have already signed up, is some outstanding material; Herman Wayland is the Southern light-heavy champion, having won the rank in the Southern A. A. U. meet last year. The A. A. U. meets are sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. organization. Tom Askin, who is also out for the K.H.S. team, was runner-up in the 123-pound class of the A. A. U. tournament.

Other prominent members are: Marion Creekmore, tri-state middleweight champion. (The tri-states are Tennessee, Alabama and Kentucky.) Dick Disney, 125-pound city champion, and Sam Polston, 115-pound runner-up in the city meet.

Wayland is dickering for meets with other schools and expresses the opinion that matches will be procured.

"Letters will be awarded to the regulars," Wayland said.

Trojans Trounce Karns As Joyland Is Showing

By 'Scoop' Harrington

The Trojan basketballers have met and defeated one of the best teams in the Knox County league. Last Friday night, while many K.H.S. students were presumably enjoying the annual Joyland, about fifty supporters were enjoying a Trojan victory over Karns. After a fast and interesting game the Trojans came out on top, 28-13. Wrifford, C. Johnson, and Foster were outstanding. Many substitutions were made by K.H.S. The "B" team also proved to be superior, as they defeated the Karns "B" team, 24-10. Cecil Sproule was the star for the "Little Trojans".

Talmadge "Sheriff" Maples, former Trojan tackle and 1929 captain, has been elected captain of the U. T. Vols. Maples, who played for the Blue and White during 1927, 1928, and 1929, entered U. T. after graduating from K.H.S. in 1930. Since then he has made an excellent record playing center. It is just another case of one of Collins' pupils making good. We wish him loads of luck and say: "See you at the Rose Bowl next year, Sheriff".

Leslie Wrifford, who came from Bridgeton, New Jersey, to Knoxville, has shown evidence of becoming one of K.H.S.'s best all-time basketball players. One might take Wrifford to be a professional wrestler, judging from his build. He has an unusually big chest, broad, square shoulders, large, muscled legs, and well-built arms. Although it was necessary for him to change his style of play on coming south, he has adapted himself well to the southern type of play in the short time since the beginning of the basketball season.

Billy Tharp, diminutive Trojan basketball team captain, missed last Friday's game with Karns. "Old man flu" got him down, but Bill is the type that will not stay down, and he is back in school now and is rearing to go.

We have a hunch that if the band would turn out for the home basketball games that it would add interest to the games. Nothing peps up one's school spirit more than to hear the K.H.S. band play its stirring military marches or the school pep song. If it is impossible to have the whole band there, probably part could come one time and part the next time. True, the boys are called upon a lot, but if they can spare one or two nights a week it would help a lot. Most of the games are over by 9 p. m. This is merely a suggestion, but here's hoping that those in charge will see fit to have the band at the Friday night games, at least.

THIRTY BOYS TURN OUT FOR TUMBLING PRACTICE

Thirty boys turned out last Tuesday afternoon for the K.H.S. tumbling team. The election of officers, which was scheduled to take place on that day, was postponed until next Thursday.

"More boys are expected out on that day, which will put us in a better position to have an election," said Coach Jones, who has charge of the team. Last year the team made many appearances during intermission at the basketball games. It is not known if the team will do that this year.

Circle Park, Under Kuhlman, Unlimbers

Circle Park, strong independent basketball team and winners of the crown in the K.H.S. independent basketball league last season, have started limbering up for the coming season.

F. B. Kuhlman was elected captain to guide the team through the season. Lettermen returning are Keller Smith, guard; Walter Holder, guard; Eugene Haun, guard; Walter Hood, forward; M. C. James, forward; Herbert Bennett, center, and Captain F. B. Kuhlman, forward; also many new boys have been added to the squad.

The Atlanta federal pen is to have a radio in every cell. Maybe this is a method of punishment.—Herald-Journal, Greensboro, Ga.

Blue Devils And Circle Park Are Now Entered

Runner-Ups and Winners In Last Year's Race Report To Jones

"Plans for the K.H.S. senior and junior Independent Basketball League are fast rounding into shape," says Coach Sam Jones. "Today is the last day a team may enter."

Two strong teams have already organized and entered; Circle Park, who won the K.H.S. Independent League last year, is ready to start play, having signed with Coach Jones early this week. The Circle Park group, captained by F. B. Kuhlman, consists of Keller Smith, Eugene Haun, Walter Holder, Walter Hood, M. C. James, Marshall Neal, Jimmie Wise, and Bud Perrin. Neal, Wise, and Perrin are new men, while the others are lettermen from last year. Deery Street "Blue Devils", also a strong group, has handed its list to Mr. Jones. The "Blue Devils" were runners-up in last season's race. The roster is as follows: Muriel Horner, Paul Horner, Leonard Greene, Warren Chesney, Calvin Howard, Artis Pease, Harold Harris, and L. E. Horner, manager.

A complete entry list will be published next week. A schedule will probably accompany the list. Concerning the junior league, Coach Jones stated that probably four teams at least will enter.

Clifford Wayland, Dexter Christenberry, Edward Cox, and Clyde Roberts have made known their desire to be student managers of the leagues. According to Coach Jones, two of these boys will be selected.

BASKETEERS DON NEW, EMBLEMED UNIFORMS TUES.

The Trojan basketball team was all dressed up in new uniforms Tuesday night in the game against Farragut, and that's not all. A permanent emblem, symbolizing the name Trojan, has been adopted.

"Central High has the Bobcat and others have their emblems," said Coach Collins, "so now we have ours."

The emblem is a Trojan soldier's head, covered with the customary war-like helmet. On the helmet the word "Trojan" is in white. The face is also white; the rest is blue.

S.C. Petitions Appear Mon.

Student Council Membership Petitions Open To All Students

Petitions will again be given out to the students of K.H.S. on Monday, December 19, by the group teachers for the purpose of electing Student Council members for next term. Mrs. Emma Rice will be in charge of the election.

Any student filling out a petition must have at least seventy-five student signatures from his class for the primary election, which will be held on Tuesday, January 3.

Those students wishing to run independently for the Student Council must have 20 per cent of their class sign their petition, except the 11-B's and 10-B's, who must have seventy-five signatures before a petition will be accepted in the election.

The primary election will be voted on by classes.

On Thursday, January 12, the main election will be held and each pupil will vote independently for the candidates.

book, comparable to 'Correct Usage', by the Oxford Press," said the editor of the Reading, Pennsylvania, Times. "In fact, your book is better for American people than the Oxford book, which is peculiarly English."
"Mrs. Rice's book is simple and concise. It calls attention to many common errors of speech and presents their corrections," stated S. D. Newton, associate editor of the "Development Bureau News," a paper dedicated to the upbuilding of the upper peninsula of Michigan.

Reviews are expected to appear soon in the Wattle Messenger, official organ of the Lutheran Church in America, the daily paper edited by the University of Missouri journalistic department, the Fort Worth Telegram, and the paper of Baylor College for Girls in Benton, Texas.

If the sales of the book continue to be good, Mrs. Rice hopes to have it reprinted January 2, 1933.

MORE ABOUT PARCO SOSO
zled veterans dragged their youthful selves friskily up before the gates of the great walled city of their host, Tomato Khan. Well, by this time his great-grandson, Continental Khan, had been born and was on hand to greet Parco and his men.

You can just bet your shirts that those gay old blades painted that court red. Not only that, but they plastered it, giving rise to our modern term, court plaster. Nothing was too good for pals of the Khans; everywhere the boys were greeted with showers of blessings, applause, and ancient vegetables. What hospitality! What hospitality! In fact, an old cabbage hit Parco, laying him up for another six years, from which we derive our modern word, hospital.

During the duration of his visit of thirty-five years, the boys who had left home with ambition in their hearts and overnight bags in their hands, the latter being wholly unnecessary, as they never did use the extra pair of socks and underwear, lived with Tomato and Continental Khan in their eight hundred room bungalow along with the hosts' seventeen thousand wives and mothers-in-law, in perfect harmony. (If you believe that, you'll believe in Santa Claus.)

All good things must come to an end, however, so taking their departure, eleven guest towels, and half the harem, our hero and his brave followers bid auf wiedersehen to their kind benefactors and with thumbs to their noses in a gesture of amiable farewell, began the long hitch-hike homeward.

Like bad checks, the long-lost drug store cowboys turned up at home with Vandyke beards and souvenirs from every hotel from Mandalay to Timbuctoo.

Miss Weigel's 11-B Group Again Wins High Standing

Leads School, Which Has Average of 2.20, With 3.59 Average

Again this six weeks Miss Henrietta Weigel's 11-B group leads the school with the highest scholastic average. This time the group's standing is 3.59, a slight rise from the previous 3.55. It seems that the school, too, has come up a bit since the last report, as the second six weeks' general average is 2.20 over the first's 2.16.
