Hendrickson and Bruce Bring Troupe Here To Present Famous Tragedy.

ADMISSION 10 CENTS

Performance Begins at 2:15—
Parallel Credit Offered
Those Attending.

Shakespeare's "Macbeth" will be given in K. H. S. auditorium, Monday afternoon at 2:15 by James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce and their Shakespearean company. Parallel credit will be given students attending the play. Those holding tickets will be excused from their sixth period class. Tickets will be 10 cents.

James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce and their excellent company are doing much to promote interest in Shakespeare's plays. They believe that these plays should be seen as well as read. This company is said to give a powerful rendition of "Macbeth".

To produce the desirable setting and stage effects it was necessary to select various K. H. S. students to portray the parts of soldiers and guests that characterize the play. Margaret Love, Elizabeth Williams, Nannette Manning, who will be guests, Gillis Kidd, Harry McNabb, Jimmy Hart, and Douglas Bean, who will be soldiers, were selected to fill these positions by

Spanish Club Votes For New Pin Design

Members of the Spanish club voted Tuesday to change the official club pin from the one previously used to the one adopted by the beginning Spanish club last year. The two clubs have been combined into one organization with Miss Mary Flenniken as faculty adviser.

The program, which was directed by Nannette Manning, included a talk on Cadiz by Ruth Vance, and a Spanish cross-word puzzle. At the end of the meeting, members who desired to write to pupils of Spanish-speaking countries were given the addresses of high school students in Mexico and Porto Rico.

K.H.S. Hi-Y Club Is Host To County Conference

Knoxville High school's Hi-Y club was host to members of the Knox County Conference of Hi-Y clubs last night at a special meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

The meeting was featured by reports of the work of the different member clubs, and by Ray Adkins' account of the State Hi-Y Convention held recently in Nashville.

The session was opened by a series of songs led by Ben Duff, faculty adviser of District 16. Each section of the devotional exercises was led by a representative of a different club. Election of the 1933-34 chairman of the Knox County Council was held during the meeting.

All delegates were inspired by the talk made by Rev. W. H. McCorkle, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Knoxville, who urged the Hi-Yers to have a goal in life and to strive with all their power to reach that goal.

Close Primary Wed. Rules Like Those Of Miss K.H.S. Contest

Today opens the primary contest in the annual election of Mr. K. H. S. The same rules that govern the Miss K. H. S. election will apply to the election of the most popular and representative boy in Knoxville High school.

Ballot boxes will open this morning, and will close at the end of the last lunch period Wednesday, March 15. Names of the five boys who will run in the final election will appear in the Blue and White next Friday. The five who receive the highest number of votes will be nominated for the final, as in the Miss K. H. S. election.

Qualities which will be considered in choosing Mr. K. H. S. are scholarship, character, leadership, and popularity. Present indications point to a wide-open election, since there are no favorites at this time.

Each voter will make his own ballot, since the ballot on the rear

Upper Council Plans Book Identification

With Earl Bradley presiding, the Upper Class Council had its regular meeting last Tuesday. As in previous meetings, the problem of thefts was discussed. Some plan is to be worked out by which books may be identified. Raymond Crowley explained to the presidents the steps which have been taken to enforce the rules already adopted.

Other topics of discussion were the point system of the Student Council, led by George Carmichael, and of the charter groups, led by Donald Cooley.

'Mikado' Features Experienced Talent

Members of Cast Have Had Varied Previous Work.

"The Mikado," the most popular and amusing of Gilbert and Sullivan's many comic operas, will be interpreted by an experienced cast when the musical organizations of Knoxville High and U-T unite to present two performances, March 28 and 30.

Tipton Masterson and Edward Howard, who played important parts in "The Gondoliers" last year, will take leading roles in "The Mikado." Masterson will play the Mikado, while Howard will interpret the character Ko-Ko, which is noted for the famous "Titwillow" song. Masterson has won places in the Atwater Kent and K. H. S. radio auditions.

James Allison, six-foot baritone, will portray the role of Pooh Bah, a character of huge and comical proportions, who is the assistant chief mogul of the little town of

Chapel Program Group Holds Tryouts Monday

Tryouts for chapel programs to be composed entirely of student talent were held in the auditorium last Monday, March 6, at 3 o'clock. According to the committee in charge, which is composed of Helen Tilley, James Rodgers, and Sara Martin, three programs are being arranged. They will include dramatics, music, and possibly a one-act play.

The first chapel, which is scheduled for Thursday, March 16, is under the supervision of Miss Edith Smith.

Four Voting Days Polls To Close With Last Lunch Wednesday

Ruth Brannum, Martha Brown, Vivian Gies, Lois Whitehead, and Evelyn Whittaker, the five girls that received the highest number of votes in the primary election, have been chosen to run in the final election of Miss K. For the final vote in the selection of Miss K. H. S., there is printed a ballot on page four in this issue.

The election is to close at the end of the last lunch period on next Wednesday, March 15.

The rules of the primary election will carry over to the final except that the votes will be counted by two representatives of the Publications Council and a member of the Blue and White staff.

Dr. Vivion Speaks On Habit Control

"The way to get rid of bad habits is to put good ones in their place," said Dr. King Vivion, president of Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas, in his address to the lower class chapel Tuesday.

To illustrate the force of bad habits on one's character, Dr. Vivion tied a boy's hands together. At first it was easy for the boy to loose himself, as the few strands furnished little resistance. But when he had wrapped the string around his wrists twenty-five times it was impossible to break it.

At the beginning of the chapel exercises, members of the girls' winning basketball and kickball teams were awarded letters.

Nightmares Convene In Musty Tomb; Even Scare Themselves

It was a wintry eve; the sepulchre was drafty, causing the tapers to flicker fantastically. Comfortably seated on coffins, we find a gay trio talking over old times and swapping ghost stories. In the background, lounging on vault slabs, ghouls, ghosts of pirates, and similar genial gentlemen of the nether world are respectfully listening to the bedtime stories being recanted.

Occupying the lime-light, so to speak, are three recognized as the nonpareil of their profession, Pod, Herr Frankenstein's monster, Count Dracula, and Imhotep, the Mummy. Being a bit high-hat they do not notice the lowly ghouls, but confine their conversation to each other, the dignitaries of the Chill and Chatter Club.

"And what did the white-haired old lady's heart do, when I jumped out at her, but go out like a radio tube!" gleefully ends Pod.

"Haw, haw, haw," uproariously laugh the others, deeply appreciating the side splitting recitation.

"All of which goes to remind me," volunteers Imhotep, "of the time I hypnotized that crippled old archaeologist and paralyzed him for life."

"Boy, that's a hot one, haw, haw, haw; I can just see his face now, frozen up like the bathroom pipes," compliments the Count, nearly splitting with mirth.

About this time a young ghost of a suicide dares the icy stares of his betters and butts in with an account of the time he cut a cat's throat, tittering the while in appreciation of his own coup.

For his trouble and impudence he receives but disapproving stares and sneers from the august trio.

Cowed and disgraced, the inexperienced ghost slips from the company, inwardly seething, and swearing vengeance on all members of the degrading feline tribe.

"Can you imagine," Dracula interrogates, "that sissy little whipper-snapper telling US how to cut a cat's throat?"

"Grammar school stuff," disdainfully sniffs the Mummy.

"This is a little off the subject, boys," Pod pipes up, "but if we had a fourth we could have a snappy rubber or two of bridge before going to Bluebeard's blowout."

"Great idea, kid; Frankie didn't

'BIG 6' CONTEST

With the addition of declamation the annual "Big 5" has become the "Big 6". K. H. S. is to send delegates again. Whether they will win is yet to be seen.

Members of the Open Forum, the K. H. S. debating club, and contestants have been chosen to represent High School in the six different divisions of the contest.

Every year the school is well represented by capable speakers that carry our colors to the "Hill" where the contest is conducted by the University of Tennessee.

The ability to speak in public is an asset that everyone needs and nearly everyone wants. Though he may never be called on for a public address, which is very unlikely in the average life, one's speaking abilities always help in contacts that are necessary and unavoidable. One should not be in the position of the man who, when he keeps quiet, is thought a fool, and when he speaks removes all doubt.

One's conversation is a factor that is always making or breaking him. With a knowledge of the art of speaking, a man may relate his thoughts to his listeners intelligently, whether they be thousands, or a small family. And after all, speech and language is a means by which one relates his thoughts.

Congratulations to the "Big Six" contestants and luck to them.

A SENIOR ISSUE

The Blue and White presents here a plan whereby every K. H. S. senior graduating in June may have his picture published in a special senior issue of the paper. At present a local photographer is making individual pictures of Knoxville High students. Through efforts of the Blue and White it has been made possible for every senior to obtain, for 75 cents, a 5x7 enlargement of his picture, and to have the cost of engraving and printing his picture in the senior issue of the paper included in this fee, which will be the total cost to the seniors.

Every club and organization in K. H. S. may have a four-column group picture in the final issue. A charge of $8.00 will be made to pay the cost of photography, engraving, and printing. No pictures will be made until the Blue and White has received the money, which must be paid by April 15. The pictures will be larger than the Voice pictures, for which $15 were charged.

Since the Voice will not be published this year, this proposed issue of the Blue and White will be the only publication which will give pictures of the seniors and of the organizations of Knoxville High. We sincerely hope that all K. H. S. seniors and clubs will support this plan enthusiastically.

REGIONAL MEET

The East Tennessee Regional meet at the new Alumni Memorial Gymnasium on the "Hill" brings several of the nearby high school basketball teams to vie with our K. H. S. varsity team for the Regional title.

Congratulations, basketball boys, for bringing or, rather, keeping at home, the 14th District championship.

The past tournament held in our own gymnasium was quite an exciting one and an attractive one also. Several of the games were girls' games.

Why doesn't K. H. S. have a girls' basketball team? The school used to have them and figured high in sports.

The boys will meet some of the best teams in the state. The other students hope and trust that the sphere pushers will figure in the Regional Tournament to bring our Alma Mater national recognition.

At The Theatres

By Alford Orr

BOOTH

This week marks the beginning of the Booth's new three-shows-a-week, instead of four, policy.

Love is taboo, in other words, "Forbidden". The aforementioned title is that of the Booth's screen offering today and tomorrow. Barbara Stanwyck, Adolphe Menjou, and Ralph Bellamy are featured in this opus of romance—secret and otherwise. It has a good cast, and if the plot holds up, the picture should be good.

As an added feature for your entertainment this week-end, the Booth is running a nine minute newsreel vividly showing the most interesting parts of President Roosevelt's inauguration.

BIJOU

An unexpected visitor to this theatre today and tomorrow is "The Unexpected Father" played by Slim Summerville. In this delightful comedy the sober Slim is aided by the noteworthy efforts of Zasu Pitts.

TENNESSEE

Lee Tracy, dynamic portrayer of reporter and press agent roles, winds up his engagement at this theatre tonight. Said young man of glib tongue and winning personality is grinding out successes by the month, it would seem. In "Clear All Wires," Tracy is cast as the flirtatious foreign correspondent who knows his news and his women. Getting in Dutch in Soviet Russia, (ha-ha-ha) was an easy job for the nose newshound, but his getting out is where the picture packs its punch. Helping Lee out in "Clear All Wires" (as if he needed help!) are Benita Hume, James Gleason, and Una Merkel.

Tomorrow the screen version of the big Broadway success, "42nd Street", opens, chorus gals 'n everything. This trend back to musical comedy cinemas is a long hoped for relief in this era of shoddy and parallel productions. Around a scanty plot the movie mogul responsible for this effort has assembled stars worthy of some intense dramatic masterpiece, Warner Baxter, George Brent, Bebe Daniels, and Ginger Rodgers. Expect peppy entertainment from the novel stage effects, clever choruses and dazzling dances, and you won't be disappointed.

Things have brightened up since Carolyn Anderson has come back to school.

Why doesn't James Yearout give Helen Benton a break?

Nana Johnson has at last given a high school boy a break. Jimmy evidently is a "power house".

Jimmie Ailshie and Margaret Love just can't be separated.

We wonder how Wanda Pedigo rates the Carson-Newman boys, especially "Ren" Reed?

"Curly" Kesterson says it's the real thing with Margaret Dykes and him.

Also there's Myrtle Lancaster and Smith LaRue.

John Troutman has been missing Kathleen Russell so much.

Is My Face Red?

Well, folks, how do you like the new nominations for "Miss K. H. S."? Yeah! Who doesn't? And the students are going to elect the male afore long. . . . Just how much weight will these present popular co-eds hold in that election? . . . Not a little. . . . One has already started her campaigning. . . . Not complaining, campaigning! Why not? Are they not representative of the school? Hotcha. . . what a school.

Gentle Readers, this column doesn't intend to run down at the heels. . . . Even if it has looked like it in the past. . . (and now).

What a fit those two editors are giving Lois. . . . Tsk. . . Tsk. . . Tsk. . . Just one at a time, boys. . . . Who else would like to figure in this while it is going on? . . . Or, who wouldn't?

Ramble awhile. . . . Last week's Princess Charming was not a bad idea. . . . even if this column does say so. . . . What do you think of that picture of Speaker Sara Martin on the front page of this rag last week? . . . Hay. . . Nuny. . . Nuny. . . and a. . . Bob, you mean too much to the opposite sex. . . Give the other bohunks a chance. . . . Hi-Y, give another skating party; everybody wants it. . . . Bugs no longer bother the lockers that contain a last week's Blue and White. . . . Don't blame the bugs, just look above this column at that dark splotch labelled Alford Orr. . . Har. . . Har. . . The sports editor is rating the girls. . . Yet. . . Not again, yet.

Last week's Spectator carried, "Good taste, Grizzard" . . . This could not have been anyone except Whitehead, could it, Grizzard?

Last week this column, strip, or dirt slinger carried a lot of stale news, or stale gab. . . not news.

So Whittaker thinks that "Bus" Countiss looks like Fredrick March. . . . There are several of the students criticized like that. Greta Garbo and Joan Bennett's seconds are in the student body. . . . What a student body!

Skating parties seem to be popular lately. . . . If they reach Jig-Saw popularity the halls will be as full of cripples as in football season. . . . Several new couples have been seen attending the "Falling Frivolities" (Skating parties). Bob has an interest in Brown that they all get sooner or later. . . mostly sooner. . . Here's mud in your eye, Bob.

School Daze

By Alford Orr

Let's hope that the much mooted "new", isn't a "raw", "dirty", or "miss" deal!

From Sinclair Minstrels:

"What was all that noise in front of your house last night?"

"The boys were bringing in a load of beer."

"Does it make all that noise?"

"Yes, I was the load of beer."

And another: Alford Orr

"The bear came at him but he couldn't run."

"Why not?"

"He had on an English walking suit."

Then there was the rooster who chased chickens all day, but his wife was a tough old egg so she cooked his goose.

With the kind permission of the copyright owner, Mr. A. L. Jobe, for whom I wrote the following poem as part of an English theme, I submit for your approval—

THREE HARD TO BEAT

Our own Cantor, Crosby, and Cab, Crooner, maniac, and slinger of gab;

Into your home they steal as ghosts,

Especially old Cab, his hot tunes to roast.

Rubino's playing his violin And Cantor is panning this classical din;

Over the ether wafts an echo in the valley,

Cab gives us the latest from Tin Pan Alley.

Bing's voice that soothes the baby's colic

Prompts love-sick maids to swig carbolic,

What has he got, this baritone, That makes our sweeties all leave home?

Now Chase and Sanborn present Eddie Cantor,

Uncle Sam's adviser, full of banter;

When from the screen he rolls those eyes

Out we go rolling in the aisles.

What mean those shrieks, those howls, those wails,

Cab's got a sizzler by the coat-tails;

How can he ope his mouth so wide That 'een his tonsils try to hide?

What's the singing? about Minnie the Moocher;

Or of Smoky Joe, the confirmed old hoocher?

But whatever it is, it's bound to be hot,

Just frying, stewing and boiling in the pot!

Drawing byes in the first round, Company "C" will meet the winner of the Band-Staff game, with "D" engaging the winner of the "A"- "B" contest. These semi-final battles will be played Tuesday afternoon. Finals are slated for Wednesday afternoon directly after school.

Tuesday the companies and band elected officers to have charge of their respective teams. George Ruble, cadet major, will be in charge of the Staff team.

Following are the boys who will manage their teams:

- Co. "A"—Herbert Cox.
- Co. "B"—Sherman Wood.
- Co. "C"—F. B. Kuhlman.
- Co. "D"—Howard Armstrong.
- Band—Walter Marshall.

Any R. O. T. C. boy, if not on the varsity squad, is eligible to play for his company.

The two losers in the semi-final games will meet Wednesday afternoon for third place.

The defending champions this year are the "B" boys. They won the title last year by defeating "A" Company in the finals. The band triumphed over "C" Company to capture third place in last year's tournament.

Sam Jones, athletic director at K. H. S., is sponsoring the tourney.

An all-tournament team, to be selected by the sports editors of the Blue and White, will be announced next week.

Tumbling and Dancing Clubs Formed by Girls

Besides the Hiking club, two new clubs have begun under the sponsorship of Miss Margaret Carroll and Miss Mary House. These are the Girls' Tumbling club and the Rhythmic Dancing club.

The Hiking club hiked yesterday to Harrill Hills. An average of twenty to twenty-five girls have been attending these hikes. The next one will be taken next Tuesday, March 14.

One of the new clubs, rhythmic dancing, held its first meeting last Wednesday in the gymnasium. There was a good attendance and more are expected to join later. As a feature of the program four costume dances were given by Alice May, Mary Fitzgerald, Ella Bevins, Ruth Long, Helen Pollard, Evelyn Lamon, Juanita Draper, Helen Nickle, Marjorie Fryar, and Muriel Waters.

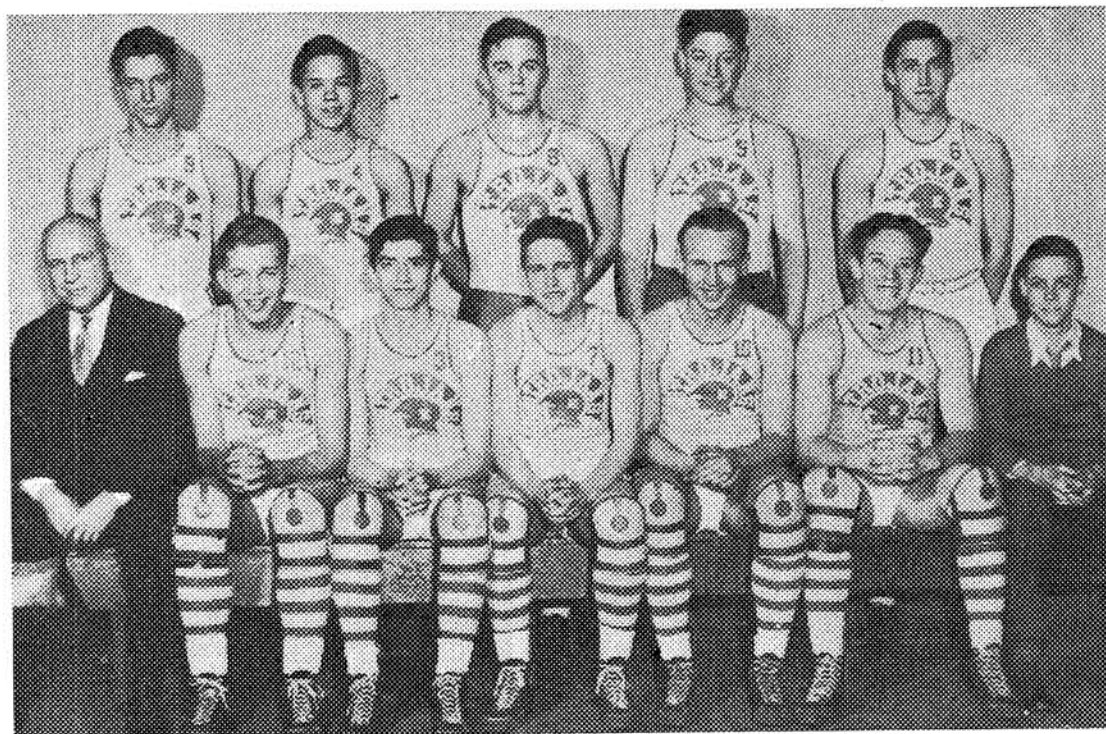

The Tumbling club will have its first meeting Monday, March 13.

Unfavorable Weather Hindrance to Trackmen

Cool weather has kept Coach Sam Jones and his cinder path artists from carrying out plans to work out on the track across from Caswell Park.

"For the present we will continue to work out in the court," Coach Jones said, "but with the competition growing keener the boys are anxious to get in tip-top condition."

Several of the candidates have shown unusual ability in their workouts and are expected to give the lettermen a run for their places.

The schedule will be the usual meets with Kingsport, Morristown, and the U-T Freshmen.

It is not too late for any boy who wishes to do so to try out for the team.

Trojans March Thru Meet To Gain Title Of Champions

By "Doug" Bean

GREAT WORK, TROJANS!

Hail the Conquering Trojan-heroes! As those stalwart sons of Troy-of-old battled for glory and honor, so did our own band of modern Trojans carry on superbly for the good old Blue and White.

For the second straight year, the K. H. S. clan captured the title of Fourteenth District Champions. Knocking off other teams as fast as they met them, the Trojans sent these same teams sprawling right and left, and left in their wake a trail of defeat and disaster for the invading quintets.

The Blue and White crew avenged the lone defeat of the season, by Maryville High, when the Crimson Whirlwind team fell before the deadly accuracy of Trojan sharpshooters in the first round game. The score was 25-12. Walland High was submerged under a 32-12 score in the quarter-finals, and Friendsville High was nosed out 26-24 in the semi-finals.

It was in that great semi-final battle with Friendsville that the Trojans especially proved their worth. Behind for the first time in the tournament, the Trojans were furiously fighting an uphill battle, striving valiantly to overcome an eight point lead.

With slowly gathering momentum the Blue and White five finally forged into a two point lead at the half, and increased it to eight points at the third quarter. Rallying desperately, the Friendsville team swept into a one point lead, with two minutes playing time remaining. Then Trojan Wrifford sank a couple of free throws and Clinton Johnson made another, putting K. H. S. again on top. But local hopes were blasted by a field goal from the hands of one of the Friendsville team, sending the game into an extra period.

In the five minute playoff, Jimmy Leach came through with a basket that gave the Trojans a 26-24 win, ending the best game of the whole tournament.

In the finals last Saturday night, the Blue and White for the third time this season triumphed over the Red and Black. The score was 22-20. Gene Johnson and Red Sharpe led the Trojans to their win.

So, for the second year in succession, the trophy of District Champions rests in Knoxville High school, thanks to the conquering Trojans and Coach Collins.

WATCH OUT, BOBCATS!

It has been said that Central is superior to K. H. S. in basketball this year, but after three defeats, two of which were decisive, the Central followers probably admit that the Blue and White quint is better.

And watch out, you Bobcats, for the Trojans on the football field next fall!

INTRODUCING THE GIRLS' SPORT EDITOR

The girls' athletic activities of Knoxville High are certain to be well represented this term on the sports page.

Bernice Mynatt, girls' sport editor, has started off with a rush and already proved herself worthy of her position.

Bernice is an athlete herself and is well qualified to write the sport news.

So girls, if you want your name in the paper, tell Bernice Mynatt, the Blue and White girls' sport editor, about it.

TWO TROJANS ARE ALL-STARS

The two Johnsons of the Trojan basketball team, Gene and Clinton, are forming a habit of making all-star teams. These two K. H. S. stars were placed on the all-Knox County honor team with the completion of the league, and then, both made the first all-tournament team in the district meet. Clinton captured the center position and Gene gained a guard berth. The former was high scorer of the meet.

16 Teams Seek Tournament Laurels At U-T

Meet Held In University Memorial Gym—Andersonville Defending Champs.

FINAL BATTLES CLIMAX MEET SATURDAY NIGHT

K. H. S. Five Named Favorite—Opposed Kingsport In First Round Last Night.

After capturing the Fourteenth District championship, the Trojans of K. H. S. are seeking the title of East Tennessee Champs at the annual Regional Tournament in the U-T Alumni Memorial Gymnasium this week-end.

The Blue and White crew was slated to swing into action last night against Kingsport High in its first round battle. The Trojans were slight favorites to defeat the Kingsport team.

Sixteen teams, including the K. H. S. five, of the best High school basketball quintets in East Tennessee, formed the entries in the meet, which included all semi-finalists in the Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, and Sixteenth District meets.

Last year, at Jefferson City in the Regional meet, the Trojans battled their way to the finals, only to lose a heart-breaking game to Andersonville by one point. The same Andersonville school has a team entered this year, and are defending champions.

Provided that the Trojans came through with a victory last night, they will meet the winner of the Dandridge-Jacksboro game tonight at 8:30. Today's contests are the quarter-finals.

Should K. H. S. win tonight, they will play one of the semi-final battles tomorrow at 4:30. Finals are slated for tomorrow night at 8:30.

Due to their splendid record this past season, the Trojans have been named ranking favorites to capture the Regional crown. There is a probability that the Central Bobcats may oppose the Blue and White team in the finals.

Teams entered in the tourney are Friendsville, Bristol, Coal Creek, Morristown, Erwin, Kingsport, Knoxville, Central, Jefferson City, Jacksboro, Dandridge, Andersonville, Everett, Baileytown, Boone's Creek, and Powell's Valley.

Student admission for all the games is twenty cents.

Journalism Class Visits Sentinel

Is Conducted Through Plant By Editor.

Visiting The News-Sentinel during the class and chapel periods Thursday, the newswriting class saw the mechanism of a modern newspaper in action.

Under the guidance of Benton Stong, editor of The News-Sentinel, the class was directed through all departments of the plant, including the editorial, circulation, composing, mailing, and printing sections.

Stopping to point out machines of especial interest, Mr. Stong had shown the students just how a modern newspaper is published and rushed away to subscribers by the time the tour had taken in the complete establishment.

At some of the desks, the students saw the editors poring over copy that reporters had placed in their baskets. On one table was a battery of telephones that rang incessantly.

Some of the most intriguing machines were the electric typewriters of the United Press and Associated Press leased wires, the long rows of linotypes and Ludlow machines for casting heads, the molds where the plates are cast from the mats, and the giant press in the basement that is capable of turning out 30,000 sixteen page papers in an hour.

central meeting place for each district. The contestants of each section meet on a specified date—March 31 for this year—and, thru elimination, choose the best teams from that district. These teams then go to the state meet held at U. T. in May, and from these district champions the state champion in each event is chosen.

K. H. S. has always been well represented in these contests and has taken several first places in past years. Last year the negative debating team, composed of Julian Harriss and Almeda Converse, placed second in the East Tennessee district. Several who were on last year's team are again eligible. H. P. Shelton, who was original orator last year, is out this year for extemporaneous speaking. Helen Tilley, dramatic reader for last year, is again trying for that event. Alvin Smith and Charles Hudson, who were on the affirmative debating team, are again working on debates.

Aside from those who defended K. H. S. last year are other candidates for the teams. Fred Brehm, Evelyn Carter, Joe Silva, Virgil Watson, Mary Currier, Charles Johnston, and Herbert Davis are working for a place on the debate team. Edwina Lowe, who last year won first place in the district contest, Helen Tilley, and Kathryn Tindell are trying for dramatic reading.

do you so dirty about that brain after all. And I know just the guy we want, too; he's finished rubbing out those paupers across the railroad tracks by now and probably has time to burn."

"Who is he, mum? Gotta be somebody in our class, you know."

"Oh, he's okay; some of the boys at the lodge say he's a has-been, but I've always contended that age is no drawback in our racket."

"You ought to know, Imho, your seniority backs you up, all right," Pod puts in, a trifle jealous of the Mummy's long crime record which dated back to the time he had polished off King Herod's chambermaid.

"Well, as I was saying, he's a great guy, and a credit to the brotherhood. I speak of the Phantom of the Opera."

"Sure, sure, the Maestro's a good egg," the twain condescendingly accede.

The Phantom arrives in good time and after five or six games, the Count orders tea served, he being the host of the evening.

A wobbly tea-caddy is trundled in by the scarred ghost of an Inquisition torturer. Pod is designated to do the honors.

"One or two?" he questions his host.

"I'll take lemon, please, the vampire requests, "sweets are bad on one's constitution I think. I sincerely doubt whether I'd have lasted these seven hundred years had I indulged."

"Nuts!" Imhotep disparagingly remarks. I use two lumps, and I'm over four times your age!"

"Yeah, and look at you now!" The Count snickers to himself, confident he'd won his point.

Titipu, Japan. He has the enormous responsibility of being Lord Chief of nearly every political position in town, including that of "Groom of the Back Stairs." Allison was winner of this year's K. H. S. audition.

The famous character of Katsisha, an old maid of most inspiring energy, will be played by Josephine McGehee, one of the most talented actresses in K. H. S. Virginia Wayland, who won the K. H. S. girls' audition, and Juliet Wilkes will play leading soprano parts.

Many Knoxville High alumni who are now students of the University of Tennessee will have prominent parts in the operetta. Dorothy Armstrong, who will portray the dainty Yum-Yum, has had several years of stage and concert experience. She first came to the front in 1928 with the leading role in the K. H. S. production of "H. M. S. Pinafore," another Gilbert and Sullivan opera. Since then she has been often heard in outstanding roles and concert appearances both at Knoxville High and at U-T.

Thomas Parham is well qualified to play the character of Nanki Poo, since he portrayed the same role in "The Mikado" four years ago here at Knoxville High. He appears weekly in an original program over WNOX, and his ability as an actor and singer is well known.

Everett Miller, who participated in "The Gondoliers" last year, will play the role of Pish Tush. Many other K. H. S. graduates will be in the chorus. Among them are Alice Webb and Holly Hornbeck, who was the leading tenor in "The Gondoliers."
