Six Principals Named For Junior Play Cast

Caldwell, Bradley, Browder, Brown, Steffenson, Tubbs Get Leading Roles.

84 STUDENTS TRY OUT

'Very Difficult to Select Cast—Much Easier to Pick Two,' Stated Sams.

For the first time in years six principals were named for the junior class play, "Happy-Go-Lucky", instead of two leads. The play, a farce in three acts, calls for a cast of twelve, which O. E. Sams had to pick out of eighty-four applicants.

The six principals chosen by Mr. Sams are: Jack Caldwell, Ann Bradley, Bill Browder, Rebekah Brown, Elaine Steffenson, and Jimmie Tubbs.

"With so many people trying out and with such a tremendous display of talent, it was exceedingly difficult to pick a cast. It would have been much easier to pick two casts," stated the dramatics director.

The story of the play is weaved about the Marsh family whose business is about to go on the rocks. The father thinks a merger with a rival company is the best course to take. But his happy-go-lucky son, Gordon, thinks a little strategy might work. Care-free type that he is, he sees no reason to take it seriously.

Gordon's fertile mind, along with the aid of several chums, furnish the plot of the thoroughly enjoyable production which will be presented sometime in October.

The cast for the play is as follows:

City Manager Gives KHS Band New Baton

Gift of city manager, George Dempster, a new baton will flash in front of the K. H. S. band this year. Knoxville considers the band an asset and the baton was a token of appreciation.

Knoxville is not the only city showing admiration for the K. H. S. band. They went to Asheville, N. C. for that city's Rhododendron festival this summer and brought back another appreciation token.

The band will number ninety-five cadets this term and according to band master W. H. Crouch has a fine future. "We have prospects of the finest band ever here," added Mr. Crouch.

Night Ball For KHS

Night football for Trojan supporters. Another step forward in K. H. S. athletics.

According to our coaching staff, this year's team will be in every game—very much.

Night football is a new and expensive improvement to go with a promising home schedule. Let's support the Trojan squad. Let's support night football for K. H. S.

There is more about the night games on page three.

12A ADVISER

ELVIN BRYANT, who has been chosen as adviser of the 38A class.

Piper New Senior Class President

Succeeds Gillenwater Who Becomes Treasurer—Other Officers Unchanged.

Hugh "Pete" Piper has been elected president of the 38A class to succeed Wilfred Gillenwater, who resigned last spring. Wilfred will take over Hugh's former position as treasurer of the senior class.

Following his appointment as editor of the Blue and White, Wilfred resigned as president of his class because he felt unable to give adequate time to both offices.

Hugh is a member of Hi-Y and an officer in R. O. T. C.

Other senior class officers remain unchanged. They are: Felicia Parker, vice-president; Helen Chamberlain, secretary; and Mack Blackburn, publicity director.

Elvin Bryant, history teacher, is faculty adviser for the class.

Six New Teachers Added To Faculty

The new term brought only six additions and replacements to the faculty of Knoxville high, three English teachers, Mrs. Martha Boyland, Carl Hutchins, and Edward Hancock, and three librarians and assistants, the Misses Mildred Williams, June Bayless, and Cornelia Johnson.

Mrs. Boyland, who replaces Miss Brading in the English department, has formerly taught at Park junior high.

Miss Cornelia Johnson, new librarian, graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1934 after receiving her high school diploma at K. H. S. She received her library training in Emory University. She worked at Lawson McGhee library one year and the public library of Memphis a year.

The Misses Williams and Bayless, assistant librarians, graduated from the University of Tennessee last June. Miss Williams is a former Knoxville high student. Miss Bayless got her prep school training in the Hinsdale high school in Illinois.

Carl Hutchins, new instructor of English, is a graduate of Carson-Newman college. He taught English for two years at Clinton, Tennessee. Mr. Hutchins is also assisting Coaches Collins and Jones.

Edward Hancock, English teacher and adviser of the Blue and White, is a graduate of Davidson College. He has specialized in journalism at the University of Wisconsin. Mr. Hancock formerly taught in Bluefield, West Virginia. He replaces the former Miss Emma Becton, who was married late this summer.

Tryouts Tonight For New Cheer Leaders

At tonight's game, tryouts for cheer leaders for this football season will be held under the direction of Mary Ruth Bibb, one of last year's leaders. Those trying out should report to Mary Ruth before the game starts to receive instructions as to which quarter they are to lead yells.

After two or three games, five cheer leaders will be elected by students holding season tickets.

Students Scatter Hither And Yon For Vacations

By Barbara Newman

When the school doors closed last June for some 2200 K. H. S. students, it meant a series of varied activities for most of them. Some broadened their minds, others got sun burn, and some merely waited until the bells should call them back again.

Myrtle Beach, an ever popular summer resort, called many. Oscar Schwarzenberg, Ed Manning, Ted Beeler, Ed Daugherty, Hugh and Betty Wilson, and Ed and Hubert Newman were among those who came truckin' home. You see, they learned how to do the "Big Apple" where it actually originated.

"See America first" was the motto of Mary Nell Davis and Doris Cate who went to California, Mary Woodward to Florida, and Florida Parker who toured Georgia, North Carolina, and Alabama.

Whether they had already seen America, or wanted a foreign stamp on the letters to the folks back home, was not revealed. Regardless of the reason, we found Donald Freeman, Gaynelle Simpson, and Wilfred Gillenwater in Canada; Virginia and Mary Ruth Bibb in Mexico and Alaska, and Claxton Mayo has not yet come back from his 'round the world trip.

School bells kept ringing through vacation for those who attended summer school. It was not wholly without fun and a touch of nature.

A non-poisonous snake escaped from Mr. Mullendore's science room before the close of school. Frantically, he searched the building but was never able to locate the missing serpent. One day, however, summer school students were aroused by shouts of a very frightened janitor who was warding the snake off with a broom. It was successfully captured and returned to its home much to the relief of all concerned.

Bad luck dogged the footsteps of many of our students. All summer hospitals were filled with K. H. S. students. A few who came

S. C. Charter Plan To Be Abandoned

K. H. S. Student Council will no longer sponsor charter groups as in former years. This decision was made by the group during the summer at the annual retreat held at Lincoln Memorial University.

In past years any group organizing in the high school was required to present a petition to the student council for approval. The council thus was in a position to regulate complex club activities and to supervise their initial work.

Student council members point out that many members did not consider the formal application worthwhile as the students did not seem to respect their charters. Thus the charter plan was abandoned.

However, groups are urged to organize as usual. Points will be awarded to officers of groups according to merit displayed during the term. Student council members are confident that their new plan will be approved by the school.

P. T. A. DIRECTS BOOK EXCHANGE IN GYM

Following their annual custom, the P. T. A. held a book exchange in the gymnasium during the first and part of the second week of school. Profits from the exchange are expected to amount to at least fifty dollars with hopes soaring to a $75 or $100 mark.

Students still wanting books or those who left books in the exchange and have not received money for them should get in touch with Mrs. Roy Freels. Her telephone number is 2-1781.

Among those who worked in the exchange are: Mrs. Freels, Mrs. H. D. Blakely, Mrs. Gordon Powers, Mrs. George Armstrong, Julia Freels, and Noreene Powers.

Attention, Seniors!

Lowell Hill, company A, John Crews, company B, Arthur Lyons, company C, and Dick Miller, company D, were commissioned company captains.

"Chosen from a field of very capable cadets, I feel that this term's officers will prove to be as good, if not better, than any group ever representing the K. H. S. R. O. T. C. battalion," stated Major Moore.

The complete list of officers follows:

MANY GRADUATE IN SUMMER SCHOOL

Some 100 high school students and 80 junior high school students continued their studies this summer at the annual K. H. S. summer school. John A. Walker, assistant principal, remarked that the attendance was excellent. Perhaps this was due to the fact that all work missed during absence from school was to be made up.

The students who were able to graduate because of the term's work are: Alvin Askew, Ralph Burkhart, Glenna Brobeck, Hugh Carrol, Frank English, Stuart Gildard, Dorris Holt, Elizabeth Jenkins, William Lennon, Aubrey Major, Henry Onkst, C. R. Schmid, Dorothy Schettler, B. L. Smith, George Troutman, and Eugene Watson.

A HEARTY WELCOME

In behalf of Knoxville high school the editor of this paper extends a most hearty welcome to you, the new students of the school.

You are entering a new field of endeavour, one that will prove profitable to you if you make it so. Any mistakes which you have made in other schools are for the most part not known and so are now forgotten.

Knoxville high school is rich in its traditions and you receive them as a heritage. But to receive them honestly, you in turn must leave something behind as so many before you have done.

We feel sure that you will experience a new sensation in finding your high school teacher a comrade in learning rather than a fearful superior.

Remember that you are in school to accomplish something. Make that your foremost objective. Let your social activities come second. They won't earn you a living when you venture into the business world.

Keep your ambitions on a high level. Work and strive to reach those goals and at the end of three years, K. H. S. and what she stands for, will mean a great deal more to you.

TO 'BECKY' BECTON

As the Blue and White enters its fourteenth year of publication, we are prone to look back over the years to determine just what were major factors in making the Trojan weekly just what it is today.

The records show the successful achievements of editors, business managers, associate editors, columnists, and reporters. Each left a contribution distinctive in its classification. Each rendered a service that stands out in vivid relief on the Blue and White's stairway to success and fame.

Another year lies before us, with other steps to climb. We stand ready to start the job with all the spirit of a true Trojan. But there is that pervading spirit missing. That spirit that has dominated and electrified a small paper with big ideas. After nine years the prim little figure with the ready smile no longer stands behind the desk in room 211.

From the staff of the Blue and White comes the deepest expression of appreciation for a priceless service. To you, Miss Becton (with all respect to Mr. Becton, you will always remain that to us), we wish every happiness in life's greatest venture.

SPOTLIGHT FOOTBALL

One by one, slowly but definitely, school after school has followed the popular trend to football under the arc lights. We tonight have the privilege of attending the inaugural of this progressive step.

For several seasons Wilson Collins, the popular Trojan coach, has urged the introduction of night football. Only one obstacle prevented him from doing so. Proper equipment would cost around three thousand dollars.

This year Coach Collins and W. E. Evans made the move that depends on your support in "selling" the idea to the townspeople. Each one of you is a salesman and your product is Trojan football plus arc lights. The financial standing of your school is at stake. Sell your product.

Night football: For your entertainment and for your approval.

The KHS Poll Of Opinion

What is your opinion of night football?

Bob Sanberg, 12A: "I think it's a good thing. For one reason more people will be able to see the games and I feel that the athletic commission will profit greatly.

Frank Bailey, 12A: "Night football will prove to be a great spectacle and have a fine attendance. The athletic commission will be sure to prosper in the end."

Holland Ingram, 10B: "It's a fine thing. A darned good thing. The people who have not been able to see them in the past will now be able to. Perhaps the teachers will not give us any homework over the week end."

Francis Caldwell, 12A: "I think they will be all right because the older people will get to see them now. But it messes up the week-end for our students."

Francis Van Hoosier, 12A: "I think the idea is lousy because mother will not let me have a date every Friday night and that's the only way I can get there."

To create more interest in the K. H. S. Poll of Opinion, the Blue and White is offering each week a pass to the Tennessee Theatre for the best question submitted. Entries should be in by Monday each week, with name and group teacher on blank.

to escape the bickering of two agents over a neutrality pact, accidentally meets Sonja Henie while skating, and is introduced as a newspaper reporter.

From this an exciting, complicated, plot unwinds which ends with the ideal solution for all concerned — the marriage of the prince and Sonja. Mount Rainier—National Park, where spectacular skiing scenes were filmed for "Thin Ice" provided an ideal setting for Sonja's elaborate skating and skiing and also for a practical joke.

After coaching Power for a week in the difficult art of standing on one's feet on skis, Miss Henie persuaded him to accompany her up a hill, presumably to get a panoramic view of the country.

On reaching the top, Sonja descended gracefully down the slopes. Tyrone followed. The climax was at the foot of the hill when Tyrone, going at the rate of forty miles landed in a thirty foot snow drift. He wasn't hurt—just a little frost bitten.

"Love Under Fire," the latest in the cycle of Spanish War pictures was 20th Century Fox's shot that missed. It has fast action and plenty of romance but the story of a Scotland Yard man chasing a lovely woman thief through shot and shell lacks a little in entertainment. Don Ameche and Loretta Young, however, turn in fine performances.

Also some of K. H. S.'s high steppers will have their first real big chance to show off. Besides "Love Under Fire", Big Apples will fall. Be sure to see the Big Apple contest on the stage of the Tennessee Theatre—Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week.

KHS Meets Johnson City Under Arcs

Hard Battle Begins Season; Night Games Add Attraction

Increased Attendance Is Expected to Make Up for Trojan-Bobcat Loss.

GAME BEGINS AT 8

Athletic Commission Aided by Cooperation of TPS and City.

Starting the season off with an unusually hard game, the Knoxville high school Trojans will meet the Johnson City high team tonight at Caswell Park. The game, starting at eight o'clock, will be Knoxville high's first home game under lights, a practice that will be continued the rest of the season. The school will present lighted acts between halves.

The lights, put up with the co-operation of Tennessee Public Service Company and City Engineer Hal Hale, are expected to increase the game attendances several times that of last year. The increased attendance is expected to make up for the $3,000.00 net loss to the athletic commission the canceling of the yearly City-Central struggle brought about.

As it was impossible before to put on acts between halves since they would not show up, now a regular schedule has been worked out for torch scenes and other lighted acts during halves of all night games. Also, since the Trojans have always been at a disadvantage when they went to other fields to play at night unaccustomed to the lights now they will be experienced and the lights will be no novelty. All the supporters of the Trojans who previously have not been able to get off in the afternoon to see them play, will now have a chance to give them 100 per cent backing and this year's team promises to give them full value.

Foxx, Other Trojans Play On B&D Team

Many former high school stars are members of the state champion Booker and Davidson softball team. The Bookers, after winning the state title, went to the quarter-finals of the international tournament.

Those Trojans aiding the Bookers in their climb to national fame were: Bob Foxx, third baseman and clean-up man; Ott Shetterly, catcher; Rip Radcliff, shortstop; and Foster, second baseman.

The team had the privilege of witnessing the defeat of Shifty Gears, the nation's number one softball pitcher, as South Bend, Indiana, defeated the Eastmen Kodak team of Rochester, N. Y.

Gears has pitched forty-nine no-hit, no-run games in tourney competition.

GYM GIRLS DIVIDED INTO ATHLETIC UNIT

The girls' physical education classes are being organized this week with the selection of squad leaders and class helpers.

The pupils who are new in the department as well as others are given many opportunities to gain points toward their school letter through activities.

The following activities will be offered to all girls: credit for living the health rules, walking, and swimming. In addition to the above activities many others are planned throughout the year.

SPORT DOPE Writer Looks 'Em Over And Predicts Fine Season Ahead

By Guilford Glazier

Knoxville high school Trojans open the 1937 football season against Johnson City high school tonight at 8:00 at Smithson stadium. . . . Coach Collins says that the Trojans have a tough team to test this year's material, but it couldn't be helped on account of school opening so late. . . . Usually the best gridders are picked out of the first game with Youngs high but it looks as though the would-be first stringers will really have to show some stuff against J. C. if they expect to rate. . . . The team this year has been weakened by the loss of such players as Bill Luttrell, Tony Randles, Bob Fox, Vee Yon, Smily Martin and others who graduated. . . . We fear that these cannot be replaced by the reserves this year but of course we have part of the cream left including Standridge, Broome, Long, Partridge, Cross, Carper, and Butler. . . . Yours truly has been looking over this year's prospects and from the looks of those second and third stringers struggling out under the hot sun there's going to be plenty of scrambling for the rest of those positions. . . . Especially noticeable were Ramsey, Powers, Wade, Billig, Templeton, Mather, Harris, Petree, Howard, Shersky, Cooper, Ragain, and Williams. . . . To most of the boys this night ball will be something new and maybe a bit discouraging, but this will all be made up in the expected backing and encouragement which will be derived from all the supporters heretofore not able to see them play. . . . Knoxville high has always turned out royally to see its boys fight but with the added loss incurred by discontinuing the annual City-Central clash, a difference of $3,000.00 must be made up some way. As a result came night games, and may this prove a boon and a successful enterprise to our athletic commission, coaches, and team.

Guilford Glazier

AMBITIOUS SCHEDULE

Every year we hear the same old story about a tough schedule, but this year we believe we have one that beats all the past ones. The first game to register the danger signal with your writer is the Kingsport battle. This year it is our turn to go there and as they have lighting facilities it will probably be a night game. As will be remembered, we were picked by many to lose last year's game but by some really brilliant passing we came out of the rut and took it by a small margin. Some say it was luck but the general opinion was that pure doggedness won the game for our boys.

Ex-KHS Athlete To Join Cardinal Camp

Carden Gillenwater, ex-K. H. S. star athlete, has been ordered to the St. Louis Cardinal's training camp next spring.

Gillenwater played with the Kinston, North Carolina, team of the Coastal Plains league this season. He was the league's choice for center fielder on the all-star team. His batting average for the season was well over .350. He hit seventeen home runs.

Carden graduated from K. H. S. last January.

PETREE OUT, ADDED TO OTHER CRIPPLES

Clyde Petree, outstanding guard candidate, is definitely out of the Johnson City game tonight. Petree suffered a badly sprained ankle.

"Combined with Ledford's injury, this mishap greatly cripples the Trojans. Petree was right ready to graduate to the first team," stated Vee Yon, guard coach.

Yon, who played great ball at guard last year, has been assisting Coaches Wilson Collins and Sam Jones this season. He later plans to attend Miami University.

S. C. Installs New Officers

K. H. S. Student Council held its semi-annual installation services on Tuesday, September 7, at Tyson Center.

Following a picnic supper, Nell Hall, vice-president, made a report on the annual retreat held this summer at Lincoln Memorial University. Joe Howard, treasurer, presented a clear picture of the development of student government, and Mary Woodward related the history of the K. H. S. Student Council. The character of a council member was portrayed by Robert Sherill, president in 1934. Miss Galbreath, adviser, spoke in memory of Harley Rich, former member who was killed this summer.

The following officers and members were installed in a candle-light service: Ed Story, president; Nell Hall, vice-president; Charlotte Tipton, secretary; Joe Howard, treasurer; Stewart Pelton, David Coulter, Irene Brogden, Mary Woodward, James Warwick, Stella Tipton, Charles Easley, Frank Seaton, Jane Hamilton, Marjorie Freels, Bill Hodges, Virginia Bibb, Rachael Faulkner, Burgess Brier, Chambliss Pierce, and Mary Frantz. The new staff members include: Marshall Perry, Mary Ruth Simpson, Jean Reeder, Wallace McCoy, and Mary Elizabeth Robertson.

In conclusion, the honor member pin was awarded to George Hines for his outstanding work as chairman of the Lost and Found Department.
